RESOURCES

- Interprofessional education: effects on professional practice and healthcare outcomes (update) Scott Reeves¹, Laure Perrier, Joanne Goldman, Della Freeth, Merrick Zwarenstein March 2013. The delivery of effective, high-quality patient care is a complex activity. It demands health and social care professionals collaborate in an effective manner. Research continues to suggest that collaboration between these professionals can be problematic.. For more information go to <http://onlinelibrary.wiley.com/doi/10.1002/14651858.CD002213.pub3/full>
- Patient Voices. The Patient Voices Programme was founded in 2003 in an attempt to bring to life the values of clinical governance, that is, equity, justice, respect and trust, through the creation of digital stories' of health and illness, life and death and what it means to be human. These short but powerful multi-media clips offer deep insight into what really matters to people, and provide an effective, affective and reflective way to hear the stories that lie behind the statistics. For more information go to <http://www.caipe.org.uk/news/patient-voices/>
- The Knowledge Network This online resource provides evidence, information, e-learning and community tools. It supports all staff to find, share and use knowledge in day to day work and learning. <http://www.knowledge.scot.nhs.uk/ipcse.aspx>
- Development of a questionnaire to assess interprofessional collaboration between two different care levels. This paper reports the development and validation of a questionnaire to assess collaboration between clinical professionals from two different care levels (primary and specialised care), according to the clinicians' own perceptions. This questionnaire has been elaborated to be used as part of the monitoring and evaluation process of the integrated care pilots in the public Basque Health Service.
