

Share your views and experiences of COVID-19

NHS England and NHS Improvement want to hear from you to understand how you are feeling, what more needs to be done, and how they could adjust their communications as part of the COVID-19 response.

On behalf of NHS England and NHS Improvement, the independent research organisation Ipsos MORI have set up the NHS Staff Feedback Hub. This is a private and anonymous online portal for you to share your views by taking part in a combination of short surveys and discussion boards with colleagues across England. Ipsos MORI will be donating £100 every week to a charity chosen by the community as a thank you for members giving us their time and participating.

If you are interested in taking part, visit the website below to find out more about the Hub and how to register:

A message from Ruth May (Chief Nursing Officer) and Stephen Powis (National Medical Director, NHS England and NHS Improvement)

At this moment, the NHS is under immense strain, unlike anything seen before in its history. It is now more important than ever to listen to your views and experiences. We really appreciate the time and effort it will take to tell us what you are feeling and thinking, but we assure you that we will be listening. These are unprecedented times, and so it's even more important that our staff in the NHS remain at the heart of what we do. Please know that we'll be listening to your views as they come through to us, and we will respond to what you tell us as we go along. Thank you once again for giving up your time to help us get it right.

Thank you.

Please feel free to share this with colleagues working in the NHS. If you would like to get in touch with the research team, you can contact us on:
